Foreign Currency Support of International Contracts

A well-coordinated policy on foreign currency regulations, as well as a more liberal approach to foreign currency operations within the Union are among the key factors that would make it easier for businesses across the EAEU to pursue trans-border cooperation, as well as eliminate barriers and limitations in executing international contracts.

Topics for discussion:

- What are the factors related to foreign currency support of international contracts that hamper inter-border trade within the Union?
- How do foreign currency regulations in the EAEU member states affect execution of international contracts, including the procedure for the registration of contracts, requirements for obligatory repatriation of foreign and national currencies, other regulations?
- How would liberalization of foreign currency regulations ease the pressure on businesses engaged in executing trans-border international contracts?

Among those invited to participate are:

Artur Dzhavadyan, Chairman of the Central Bank, Republic of Armenia

Elvira Nabiullina, Head of the Central Bank, Russian Federation

Pavel Kallaur, Chairman of the Board of the National Bank, Republic of Belarus

15:00-16:30 Lecture Hall	Panel discussion: How To Start Selling? Export Capabilities of the Consumer Industry in the EAEU The consumer industry in the Union has a solid industrial basis. Yet the industry is now developing at a pace that leaves much to be desired. Common industrial chains of cooperation should be created through efficient use of manufacturing facilities; such chains may trigger development of the consumer industry in the Union and growth of its export potential. That is why it is crucially important now to assess possibilities for cooperation, identify products to be sold on third-country markets and agree upon joint instruments of production of export goods. Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What prevents creation of consumer industry clusters in the Union? What can be adopted from the experience of other countries in creating consumer industry clusters? • Trends of change in demand for consumer goods. What products should be promoted on international markets? • Cases of success. How to learn to be able to sell? • Creation and development of joint dealer infrastructure • Use of financial instruments to support cooperation

10:00-11:30 Plenary Hall	Plenary meeting: Technological Breakthrough and EAEU Potential With the support of the International Forum of Eurasian Partnership, Ministry of Industry and Trade of the Russian Federation The strategic goal of the Eurasian Partnership is to create additional cumulative opportunities in the common economic territory that would attract new creative technologies, breakthrough innovations, qualified human resources to manufacture internationally competitive products. To realize these purposes, the EAEU nations should revise industrial standards and develop a coordinated policy of implementing innovations and exchanging technologies. Integration, on the other hand, should serve as a weighty advantage of the five member states on their way to a breakthrough in the industrial development. Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are the Union member states ready to respond to challenges of the new industrial revolution? • How can integration help each of the Union member state to stay competitive in the economy of the future? • What measures should be taken on the supranational level to activate the process of technologies transfer?

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What aspects of cooperation between enterprises in the EAEU hold the greatest potential in regards to cooperation and import substitution in high-technology industries? • Does the high-tech industry business have any suggestions on how to enhance the potential of cooperation in the EAEU industry? • How can interests of small, mid-sized and large businesses be aligned to create subcontracts?
10:00-11:30 Hall 1	Strategic session: Eurasian Continental Partnership: Expanding Space for Business in the EAEU Direct contacts with the Union are a matter of interest to many countries, regional integrational associations and international organizations, ranging from Southeast Asia, Africa, Middle East to Latin America. The EAEU is growing into a serious player in the emerging architecture of the world economy, and this is especially important in light of mega-partnerships being formed in many parts across the world and since discussion on creating a similar partnership, the Eurasian Continental Partnership, is underway. Businesses from the EAEU member states are active participants in the discussion between the Union and its foreign partners. Those taking part in the discussion will talk on the outlook for developing stable partner relations on a global scale. What shape will this partnership take? What impact will the creation of the Eurasian Continental Partnership have on the global economic environment? What is the balance in the cooperation with Western and Eastern partners of the Union? What potential does the continental partnership hold for EAEU businesses? Moderator: Tatyana Valovaya, member of the Board (Minister) for Integration and Macroeconomics of the Eurasian Economic Commission Among those invited to participate are: Victor Khristenko, President of the EAEU Business Council Arsen Ghazaryan, President of the Union of Armenia’s Industrialists and Entrepreneurs Vladimir Ulakhovich, Chairman of the Belarusian Chamber of Commerce and Industry

12:00-13:30 Hall 1	Debates: Crypto Currencies and Blockchain: the Economy of the Future or a Risky Experiment? Bitcoin, the first cryptocurrency, appeared some ten years ago, but disputes are still underway on the role of cryptocurrencies in the modern world. Bitcoin was created in the middle of the crisis as part of an experiment and had no particular value; yet now it has become the symbol of the new digital currency and a means of speedy enrichment, always in the spotlight of public attention. Like all financial markets, cryptocurrencies showed indicators of a financial bubble and were used for realization of illegal schemes. Regulators from different countries are discussing possible methods of control of risks related to the new phenomenon. What are cryptocurrencies, after all: a future or a useless or even risky experiment? Should the EAEU member states rely on cryptocurrencies in forming a common financial market? Topics for discussion:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The essence of cryptocurrencies: a new stage of money evolution or a financial bubble? • How will cryptocurrencies be regulated in light of integration of the EAEU member states' economies? • What is the extent to which such regulation should go: should regulators impose some limits of what is allowed or introduce a fully-fledge regulation? • Can cryptocurrencies be the driver of the EAEU economic growth and factor of economic stability in the member states of the Union?

12:00-13:30 Hall 2	Panel discussion: Rebooting the Jewelry Industry: from Handicrafts to Brands The jewelry industry is one of the most promising industries in the Union in regards to its export potential. That is why forming a common Eurasian market of jewelry products is one of the Union's high-priority tasks. First steps have already been made in this regard: projects on mutual recognition of hallmarks and on marking jewelry products are underway. The transition period is not easy for the business. Yet the opportunities that a common market provides outweigh all the difficulties. How should

	businesses prioritize their cooperation-related goals in the new market conditions, find their place in the common production chain and efficiently use the opportunities that the market provides? Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Outlook for creating a EAEU jewelry export brand • How should the Eurasian jewelry distribution chain be developed on the priority international markets? International experience in promoting jewelry products • New digital solutions aimed at preventing illegal products from getting to EAEU jewelry markets, increasing honest competition and creating favourable conditions for market players • What place will EAEU jewelry manufactures take in the value chain? • Opportunists of financial and other development institutes in the support of cooperative projects Moderator: Tigran Sarkisyan, Chairman of the Board of the Eurasian Economic Commission Among those invited to participate are: Karine Minasyan, Member of the Board – Minister in charge of Internal Markets, Information Support, Information&Communication Technologies Aleksey Moiseev, Deputy Minister of Finance of the Russian Federation Vasiliy Osmakov, Deputy Minister of Industry and Trade of the Russian Federation Kairbek Uskenbaev, Vice Minister for Investment and Development of the Republic of Kazakhstan Almazbek Azimov, Deputy Minister of Finance of the Kyrgyz Republic Gagik Mkrтчhyan, Adviser to the Minister of Economic Development and Investment of the Republic of Armenia Gagik Gevorkyan, Chairman of the Russian Jewelers Guild Association Board Maksim Shkadov, Director General of the Kristall Production Corporation Valery Budny, Director General of the industrial media-holding company RESTEC JUNWEX
12:00-13:30	Panel discussion:

Lecture Hall	International Economic Activities of the EAEU as a Foundation of Economic Growth and a Factor of Stable Business Development
	Over the recent years, representatives of EAEU member states for more than once stated that of prior importance for the Union is the development of foreign trade, growth in export volumes, getting access to new markets with the purpose of securing a niche on the international market of processed products. All the EAEU member states have adopted national programs of export development, and the Eurasian Economic Commission is consistent in promoting the idea of open foreign markets to ensure equal access of own products and products of major world exporters. However, as of 2017 the total export volume of the five EAEU nations was USD386.6 bln, which is by far lower in comparison with the export figures of the Customs Union in 2013, totalling USD587.7 bln. During the discussion representatives of the Eurasian Economic Commission, representatives of state agencies, members of the EAEU business community and international experts will talk on the feasibility of the task to attain a many-fold increase in non-resource exports, as set by the EAEU governments, as well as on how to help businesses believe this goal is attainable and how to reach this ambitious objective. Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do companies in the EAEU need export sales or do they prefer work on the internal markets with higher margins? • Is the conservative stance of business community aimed at larger presence on internal markets favourable for economic growth or should business be motivated to grow export sales? What can be used from relative international experience? • What can the EAEU business community get from international economic activities and how can governments support the process? • What, apart from sanctions, is the reason of the Union's failure to attain the pre-crisis results in export volumes? How can export growth be attained, primarily in regards to high-tech products? Moderator: Veronika Nikishina, member of the Board of the Eurasian

and Perspectives of Eurasian integration

The Eurasian Economic Union has existed for four years now. Since the time of its inception the five member states have made good progress in the process of integration. However, taking into consideration the transformation of the global economy and global economic challenges a question arises on the further development of the Union. Is the integration agenda created as far back as 2014 still relevant? What other spheres should be engaged in the Eurasian integration processes? What is the interest of business? What are the priority aspects of the further development of the Union, with the Republic of Armenia chairing the Union in 2019? How should goals in the spheres of stable development be included in the integration agenda? How can the Union gain a position of importance in the complex system of global, regional and national factors?

Moderator:

Tatyana Valovaya, member of the Board (Minister) for Integration and Macroeconomics of the Eurasian Economic Commission

Among those invited to participate are:

Mger Grigoryan, Vice-Premier of the Republic of Armenia

Foresight Session:

EAEU Digital Consortia: a Pool of Opportunities for High-Tech Businesses

The EAEU digital agenda, ranging from a more efficient cooperation between state agencies and businesses to transformation of manufacturing processes, opens up new opportunities for high-tech businesses. Businesses in the Union are already deeply involved in the processes of economy digitalization. New areas of cooperation evolve, development of competitive digital platforms and ecosystems is underway in the EAEU.

What IT solutions are required for the realization of the EAEU agenda? How should the state, business and the Commission interact to get most of the projects on the digital transformation in the EAEU? What advantages do EAEU businesses have to increase their competitiveness in the digital economy on international markets?

Topics for discussion:

- Architecture of projects on digital transformation in the EAEU. Eurasian Digital Initiatives
- Cases of successful implementation of digital projects in the EAEU and their use at scale on the level of the Union
- Opportunities for cooperation in developing digital projects in the EAEU: business, state, Commission, global players
- Competencies in digital transformation: at the junction of state management and business

Yet in practice employees and their family members still encounter problems of migration and social character and face risks that are not obligatory and should be avoided. Since rights and freedoms of employees are not fully realized in the Union, development of a single labour market is going at a slow pace. To increase mobility of labour resources on the common labour market of the Union and to facilitate employment of EAEU citizens, the Department of Labour Migration and Social Security (Eurasian Economic Commission) put forward an initiative according to which EAEU citizens with long-term employment contracts should be granted rights to permanent or temporal residence in the country of employment. Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Enhancing mobility of workforce in the EAEU common market • Providing safe and comfortable labour conditions to EAEU citizens Moderator: Samat Aliev, Assistant Member of the Board - Minister in

10:00-11:30 Lecture Hall	Round table discussion: The Outlook for Forming a Common Market of Organic Products in the EAEU: Development of a Common Approach to Standards and Regulations. The world market of organic products is growing on average approximately 10-15% annually. Its volume is estimated at USD90 billion now and is expected to grow to USD130 billion by 2025. Stable growth of demand and limited offer can enable manufactures from the Union to get their share of this promising niche. However, a common approach should be worked out to ensure stable growth of organic production in the Union, as well as to reach international markets. Topics for discussion:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What are the perspectives of forming a common market of organic products? • Standards and regulations on support of organic production and distribution of organic products in the EAEU on national and supranational levels. • How can organic agriculture in the EAEU raise its export potential? • Do EAEU cooperation projects in organic production have any potential? • Practical cases of using best available technologies of organic agriculture

Use of such services is likely to bring about dramatic changes in a wide spectrum of industries, business models and operational processes. Now each of the EAEU nations is facing the task of implementing digital transformation in such a way so as to reach global leaders. Large companies have already started to use digital technologies in rendering their services to streamline related processes and cut costs in production cycles. These advantages enhance the investment attractiveness of the companies in question and bring investments into the real sector of economy. However to attain wide-spread use of such technologies, specific legal and institutional problems should be solved. Topics for discussion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is the potential of digital services in the real sector and sphere of services? • How should use of such services be regulated? • How are major enterprises and corporations integrating such technologies into their services? Moderator: Venera Shaidullina, Deputy Head of the Expert Council of the Working Group for Coordination of Legislative and Regulatory Activities related to Digitalization for the year 2018 Among those invited to participate are: Sergei Zhigarev, Head of the Russian State Duma Committee of the Federal Council of the Russian Federation for Economic Policies, Industry, Innovative Development and Entrepreneurship, Russian State Duma Deputy of the Seventh Assembly
